

Award
Winning Project

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH, SANCTUARY RENOVATION
Columbia, SC

Under Construction

OWNER

Dickie Jenkins
St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(803) 779-0030

ARCHITECT

Asheley Scott
1x1 Design, Inc.
(803) 834-4048

COMPLETION DATE

June 2015

SIZE

7,000 SF

AWARDS

Historic Preservation Award
for Excellence in Preservation/
Restoration, Historic Columbia
Foundation

■ St. Paul's Lutheran Church was established in 1889 with the cornerstone laid for its current sanctuary in October of 1913. The Church teamed with Mashburn and the architect to restore the historic church back to its original beauty. The team worked with key restoration subcontractors to revive the space and enhance the historic features of the church.

■ The wood of the stained glass windows and doors was restored to the original oak finish. St. Paul's signature red doors were refinished with fully refurbished hardware. The old wallpaper in the chancel was replaced with venetian plaster to draw attention to the centerpiece. Outdated carpeting was removed to expose the heart of pine flooring which was then refinished. The original hardwood pews were fully disassembled, restored and refinished, and pew cushions were added.

■ Other renovations included updating all ornamental plaster trimwork and beams, adding carpet in the aisles, reupholstering the kneelers and updating the air distribution.

